

Live Multi-Player Video Five Card Draw Strip Poker

Friday, 20 June 2008

Strip Poker Men's Club has announced the long awaited, well publicized release of a combined video chat and multi-player five card draw strip poker product has finally arrived, and although it's just a BETA release and at present not cosmetically pleasing to look at, the final product is said to be just weeks away.

Utilizing the latest combination of Flex and Flash technologies allows the game to run extremely efficiently to enhance overall player experience.

Players are required to register, the process takes about 10 seconds to complete and you are immediately logged into the lobby area. Within the lobby you have a choice to solely chat freely to other persons within the lobby and even view their webcam or invite them into a private room for a private chat or game of Five Card Draw strip poker, a maximum of 4 players can enter the room. For those who have no knowledge of the game of Five Card Draw there is a game tutorial onsite with more information following over the coming weeks.

The game in its BETA release has known bugs, and bugs are being fixed almost on a daily basis so we hope to have this in a BUG free and cosmetically pleasing state within 2 weeks.

The BETA release of the Five Card Draw Live Strip Poker is guaranteed to be a unique gaming experience and its targeted audience is the adult strip poker market, avid Five Card Draw players and persons who love to video chat. Those wishing to trial the BETA release can do so absolutely free, all that you need to do is register to take part.

In coming weeks a PAY-PER-VIEW component will also be added to this product in the final stages of its development. We encourage anyone testing the game to report bugs they find so the site administrator.
